Athens and London programs debut in fall

This fall Harding launches two new foreign studies programs, more than doubling the number of students who will be able to participate during the fall semester. The new programs — one in Athens, Greece, and the other in London, England — are significant additions to our already-strong offerings.

Harding University in Florence, Italy (HUF), was our initial venture into expanding Harding's liberal arts curriculum with an international focus. Now, 12 years later, HUF continues to be one of the most popular programs at the University. More than 800 students have spent a semester at the Florence campus.

The two new programs add to the significance of international study at Harding. Harding University in Greece (HUG) will emphasize study of the Bible lands. Students' regular classes will be supplemented with educational tours, including a 10-day tour of Asia Minor, a four-day cruise to the Greek Isles and Turkey, and a week in Israel.

Harding University in England (HUE) will emphasize the Western heritage found in English literature, art, music and history. In addition to classes, students at HUE will participate in seven educational trips, visiting Oxford, Cambridge, Stonehenge, Bath, Canterbury and Stratford-upon-Avon, plus a week-long field trip to Scotland, Ireland and Wales.

I am very pleased that we are able to offer these unique educational experiences for our students. Not many private universities the size of Harding can offer such a variety of global studies programs. Our goal is to provide courses that can be enhanced by study in an international setting. Students tell us these are experiences that they will remember for a lifetime.

The two new programs have been received with instant enthusiasm by students and parents. All available positions for each program were soon filled for their inaugural semesters of study. Forty-six students are scheduled to go to Athens, and 40 students are scheduled for London. Both HUG and HUE will be offered only in the fall semester.

All three of these programs share serendipities that we believe to be very important. First, the local churches where our students will worship while in Athens, Florence or London will be strengthened by the presence of these young Christians. Second, I believe the students will gain an understanding of the possibilities and need for evangelistic mission efforts.

This has already happened with students attending HUF, as a number have decided to return to Italy or another European country as part of a mission team. Of all the benefits of international study, the increased awareness of one's responsibility to mission needs may be the most important thing these Harding students will bring back to the United States.

HUF, HUG and HUE are certainly acronyms that will become much more familiar in the years to come. HB

Dr. Henry Farrar

M. Judy Morris

Two new members named to board of trustees

TWO NEW MEMBERS HAVE been elected to the board of trustees during the past year. Their selections were announced by James Cone, board chairman.

Henry C. Farrar, M.D., of Lebanon, Tenn., and M. Judy Morris of Little Rock, Ark., were selected to serve, bringing the board's membership to 21.

Farrar, a native of Nashville, Tenn., attended Harding from 1944-1947 and went on to receive his medical degree from the University of Tennessee. He now maintains a surgery practice in Carthage, Tenn. Harding awarded him an honorary doctor of laws degree in 1973, and he was named an Outstanding Alumnus in 1975.

An avid missionary and supporter of Nigerian Christian

Hospital, he has worked periodically for more than 30 years in Nigeria, Tanzania and China. He has preached or taught Bible classes for nearly 50 years in several states and in Africa, and he now serves as an elder of the College Street Church of Christ in Lebanon.

Farrar and his wife, Grace, have been married 43 years and have six children — Paul, Martha, David, Henry III, Lee and Samantha — all of whom attended Harding Academy and the University.

Morris, a native of Hot Springs, Ark., received her bachelor of science in education in 1962 from Henderson State University. She has been a member of the Mabelvale Church of Christ in Little Rock for 20 years and serves the congregation on its education committee, as chair of its Senior Citizens' Program, as a Bible teacher and as coordinator of the Ladies Food Program.

She has served as a board member of Central Arkansas Christian Schools Inc. since 1980 and as its secretary for the last six years. She also is on its spiritual and academic affairs committee and chairs its nominating committee. A member of the Little Rock chapter of Associated Women for Harding, she has served as its secretary, vice president and president.

Morris has been married to Dale Morris, M.D., for more than 30 years, and their two children, Scott and Jill, both attended Harding.

Tucker presents economics paper

Dr. David Tucker (business) presented a paper, "A Comparison of Attitudes Toward Economic Issues Among Students in Central American Countries and the United States," at the annual meeting of the Mid-South Academy of Economics and Finance held Feb. 9-11 in Nashville, Tenn.

Raymond Muncy dies; scholarship fund begun in his honor

THE FAMILY OF DR. RAYMOND L. MUNCY has initiated an endowed scholarship fund honoring the former chairman of the history department. Muncy died Jan. 6 after a brief illness.

He is survived by his wife, Eloise, and three children, David of North Little Rock, Ark.; Marcus of Clarksville, Ark.; and Zachary of Searcy.

The Raymond L. Muncy Scholarship Fund will be an endowed fund whose income will be used to help deserving students majoring in history at Harding. A committee of faculty members in the department will select the recipient of the scholarship each year.

Muncy was classified as a distinguished professor of history, a designation he earned after being selected by Harding students as a distinguished teacher three times, most recently in 1988. He had been a history professor at the University since 1964 and had served as chairman of the department from 1965 until last year.

Muncy had served as the first teacher in the University's international studies program in Florence, Italy, when the program began in 1981, and he had been scheduled to serve as the first teacher in the University's new program in Greece this fall.

He was author of two books, including Searcy, Arkansas: A Frontier Town Grows Up With America, which received the National Award of Merit in 1977 from the National Association of State and Local Histories. He has also written chapters for nine other books.

A native West Virginian, Muncy received his master's degree from Indiana University and his doctorate from the University of Mississippi at Oxford. He was a member of the Searcy Kiwanis Club, serving on its executive board. Since 1971 he had served as an elder at the College Church of Christ, and he had served the Arkansas Association of College History Teachers as president, vice president, secretary and treasurer.

Memorial gifts or other gifts to the Muncy Scholarship Fund should be sent to the Harding University Advancement Office, Box 2238, Searcy, AR 72149-0001. Please make checks payable to Harding University, and designate on the gift that it is for the Muncy Scholarship Fund. The family will be notified of gifts received toward the fund.

Student Lectureship focuses on Jesus

"THE MAIN THING WE wanted to accomplish through this lectureship was to make Christ seem real, to make Him come alive for the students."

Senior Lori Tucker believes this goal was accomplished at the fifth annual Student Lectureship Jan. 23-26. Tucker, an elementary education major from Tualatin, Ore., and Nick Fouts, a senior general studies major from Searcy, serve as co-chairs of the Student Association's Spiritual Life Committee, which organized the lectureship.

The lectureship theme, "In His Steps," was carried out by 22 student speakers through five theme keynote lectures, three chapel presentations and 12 class sessions during the four-day event. Keynote lectures were presented by Fouts; Keith Kilmer, a senior from Paris, Texas; Rich Little, a senior from Capalaba, Queensland, Australia; Bob Lawrence, a graduate student from Niceville, Fla.; and Jay Baker, a graduate student from Searcy.

"Our theme verse, 1 John 2:6, helped us learn more about how Jesus lived His life so we, in turn, can learn how to live," Fouts said.

Men's and ladies' classes were offered concurrently twice a day Monday through Wednesday of Student Lectureship week. The classes covered the topics "The Compassionate Jesus," "The Humble Jesus," "The Forgiving Jesus," "The Sacrificial Jesus," "The Living Jesus" and "The Returning Jesus."

The lectureship program was complemented by other activities during the week, including a potluck given for students by members of the College Church of Christ and a special chapel service for Harding's 152 international students. Fouts and Tucker were pleased with student involvement and attendance at the various lectures and classes.

Fouts said that Dr. Tom Alexander, associate dean of the College of Bible and Religion, and Dwight and Barby Smith, College Church campus ministers, were of special help to the committee in planning the lectureship.

"God did some powerful things during the week and really touched people," Tucker

Spring enrollment of 3,580 sets new record; tops last year by 152 students

REGISTRATION FOR THE spring semester set a new spring record with 3,580 students enrolled, topping last year's spring enrollment by 152 students.

The total includes 3,410 students on the Searcy campus and 170 students in Memphis at the Graduate School of Religion.

Represented in the enrollment are all 50 states, with Alabama, Arkansas, California, Colorado, Florida, Louisiana, Missouri, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Texas each having nearly or more than 100 students enrolled. Representing 31 different foreign nations are 152 in-

163 graduate in December ceremonies

WINTER COMMENCEMENT ceremonies held Dec. 18, 1993, brought to a close the college careers of 163 seniors as they received their degrees from President David Burks.

The ceremonies in Benson Auditorium were led by speaker Dr. Clifton L. Ganus Jr., chancellor. Ganus substituted for scheduled speaker Dr. Bill Banowsky, executive vice president of National Medical Enterprises in Santa Monica, Calif., who was unable to attend because of illness.

Also included in the enrollment figure are 158 new students enrolled in college for the first time and 26 students in the School of Biblical Studies. They join more than 3,200 students who returned from the fall semester.

"We're so fortunate to have these students, and having another record is an encouragement to us," said Mike Williams, director of admissions. With nearly 5 percent more students admitted for the fall 1994 semester than at the same time last year, the University hopes to see another fall enrollment record as well.

Scott led his fellow classmates in the singing of two hymns. A tribute to the parents of the graduates was delivered on behalf of the class by James Kennell, another candidate for graduation. Graduating senior Kim Scott performed "Climb Ev'ry Mountain" with accompanist Neva White, associate professor of voice.

Forty-six of the seniors graduated with honors. The benediction was given by Larry Richmond, head football coach and assistant professor of kinesiology.

Mitchell lectures in Uruguay

Dr. Carl Mitchell (Bible) was the guest of the church of Christ in Montevideo, Uruguay, where he gave three public lectures on psychological and sociological factors that impact family and individual life. He also spent three days in group dynamics with missionaries from Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Uruguay.

Two history professors attend national meeting

Dr. Paul Haynie and Dr. Fred Jewell (history) attended the national meeting of Phi Alpha Theta, the international history honor society, Dec. 27-30, 1993, in Allentown, Pa. Haynie presented a paper titled "An Aborted Surrender Saves McCook's Raid," and Jewell attended as a member of the society's national board of advisers.

Housing class visits two homes in Memphis

Dr. Ellen Daniel (home economics) traveled to Memphis, Tenn., in November with the students in her home economics housing class to visit two homes, one built in 1870 and the other in 1990. The houses, each built to achieve the highest standards in design and workmanship, were evaluated by the class in the areas of style and innovative concepts.

Verkler presents counseling paper

Dr. Bill Verkler (sociology) attended the annual convention of the Arkansas Sociological and Anthropological Association Oct. 22 in Little Rock. He presented a paper titled "Snatching Defeat from the Jaws of Victory," which covered factors involved in the termination of a successful counseling program.

Honors students visit St. Louis

NEARLY 50 STUDENTS entered the "Gateway to the West" in February as part of the 1994 American Studies Tour.

St. Louis was this year's destination for the city tour, an annual event coordinated by the University's American Studies Institute (ASI) for students in its Distinguished Student Honors Program. Each year 46 students and two faculty sponsors select a city and spend two full days there, visiting successful businesses, historic sites and other places of interest, and meeting business leaders, government officials and educators.

The students traveled to St. Louis Wednesday, Feb. 23 and returned to Searcy Friday, Feb. 25. During their stay they toured various businesses, including the Ford Motor Company's minivan assembly plant, McDonnell-Douglas' F-15 airplane plant and the Federal Reserve Bank, and several cultural sites, including the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, Gateway Arch, historic Union Station and St. Louis' art, science and history museums.

Dr. Bob Reely, associate executive director of the American Studies Institute and coordinator of the tour, said the focus of the tour has changed a bit over the years.

"Historically, the purpose of the tour was to expose students to business, entrepreneurship and industry," Reely said, "but it has broadened into, simply, a study of America. We hope to show our students a slice of America by considering not only business and industry, but also history, the arts, literature, science and technology."

Reely said the students also enjoy their opportunities to meet other Christians in the cities they tour. During the St. Louis trip, the students stayed with members of the Lafayette Church of Christ in Ballwin, Mo., where Chris Dell, former assistant director of admissions at Harding, serves as youth director. Each morning during their stay, the tour group was led in devotional thoughts by a Christian business professional from that congregation.

Students in the ASI Honors Program have at least a 3.5 grade point average and are juniors or seniors. Those chosen to be a part of the city tour are selected from that program on the basis of grade point av-

Alumni College planned for October

UNIVERSITY ALUMNI AND friends age 50 or older will have another chance to relive their college days Oct. 16-22 during Harding's fourth Alumni College.

During this nostalgic week, students take three courses taught by some of Harding's most exciting instructors. The courses, which are not for academic credit, require no homework or exams, and participants may attend daily chapel with the University students.

Outside the classroom Alumni College students are provided meals, outdoor outings and tours, various on-campus programs and free time. The all-inclusive fee of $270 covers expenses for classroom instruction, three meals per day in the University cafeteria, and double-occupancy lodging in the on-campus Heritage Inn. (Single rooms are available for an additional $20.) All lodging, classroom and dining facilities are housed conveniently in the American Heritage Conference Center.

Teachers and courses scheduled for the October session are Tom Eddins, associate professor of Bible, with "The Drama of the Hebrew Scriptures," an historical survey of the canonical Hebrew Scriptures; Dr. Paul Haynie, associate professor of history, with "Why Mount Rushmore? An Ex-erage, seniority in the Honors Program, and participation in ASI events. The average grade point average among students now in the ASI Honors Program is 3.89.

Accompanying Reely and the students to St. Louis was Dr. Larry Long, professor of English and director of the University's Honors Program. Other cities visited during the last five years have included Washington, D.C.; Dallas; Nashville, Tenn.; Huntsville, Ala.; and Bentonville, Ark.

amination of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and T. Roosevelt," a study of the necessary leadership of four presidents in the birth, growth and survival of our nation; and Dr. F.W. Mattox with "Filling the Ancient Measure," a study of the Restoration Movement among American churches of Christ in the 18th and 19th centuries.

Alumni College enrollment is limited to 48 per session. For a brochure and more information, contact Dr. Jimmy Carr, Alumni College director, Harding University, Box 1224, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or call (501) 279-4276.

Distinguished Alumnus nominations sought

THE DISTINGUISHED Alumnus award is presented each year during the Black and Gold Banquet at Homecoming as recognition of service to the church and to God, a life consistent with Harding's ideals, distinguished professional achievement that has merited the honor and praise of peers and colleagues, and for active support of the University. Your participation is requested by submitting nominations and supporting letters to Harding's Office of Alumni Relations, Box 768, Searcy, AR 72149-0001. The deadline for nominations is June 1.

New international business major offered

HARDING'S FACULTY approved in January a new major in international business that will be directed by Dr. Budd Hebert, associate professor of business.

Dr. David Tucker, dean of the School of Business, said the new major has been added to the school's curriculum because the nation's economy and business ventures are assuming more of a global perspective than ever before.

"With the passage of the North American Free Trade Agreement and the growth along the Pacific Rim, the international aspect of America's economy will continue to increase," said Tucker.

"An international aspect has always been found at Harding. We've always had an emphasis on international missions, and we now have three foreign-study programs. We want to piggyback this new major onto the success of the University's other international programs."

The major's curriculum will include 36 hours of business core requirements and 30 hours of international business courses, which include practicum and foreign language courses.

Hebert said the practicum will consist of overseas business experiences ranging from brief visits to extended travel to a variety of international companies. Students will then submit written analyses about each company visited.

"The practicum will serve to enmesh the students into the whole international business perspective," said Hebert. He hopes the practicum will evolve into an internship once the major is further established.

He also said employees with a global perspective are in great demand by businesses and will continue to be in the future. "Companies are going to be looking for individuals who understand different cultures, know different languages and are willing to travel," Hebert said. "A degree in this major will automatically send up a flag to our students' potential employers that they are world citizens."

The major will be offered beginning this fall. It includes a total of 128 hours when the general education and business core curricula are incorporated into the major. A minor, which requires 20 hours from the international business curriculum, is also being offered.

62 students selected for Who's Who

THE 1994 EDITION OF Who's Who Among Students in American Universities and Colleges, the publication that honors outstanding campus leaders nationwide, will list 62 Harding students in its pages.

Those students selected for inclusion in the book were nominated by faculty members and the Student Association based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extra-curricular activities and potential for continued success. Faculty members narrowed down the list with a final vote.

Candidates had completed at least 90 hours with a cumulative grade point average of 2.50 or higher, and all were active in campus organizations. More than 1,400 colleges and universities participate in the national program.

Also on the list were Joel DeYoung, Jana Fitzhugh, Beth Foster, Nick Fouts, Dena Harrell, Kerri Hartman, Rebecca Helm, Robin Hill, Angie Hobby, Cliff Huot, Jason Jewell, Kristi Jones, Johnny Kerr, Keith Kilmer, Tammy Kodatt, Richard Little, Richard Loh, Leah Mangrum, Darin Martin, Valerie McCammon and Diadra McGregor.

Course features visit to Faulkner's Oxford

A TWO-DAY FIELD TRIP TO Oxford, Miss., will highlight a course about William Faulkner to be taught during Intersession May 16-31.

The three-hour course, which may be taken for either undergraduate or graduate credit, will be taught by Dr. Dennis Organ, professor of English and department chairman, and Dr. Larry Long, professor of English and director of the University's Honors Program. The course has been offered several times in the past and usually involves 15-20 students.

Students will read a collection of Faulkner short stories and three of his novels, The Unvanquished, The Sound and the Fury and The Hamlet. The trip to Oxford will feature visits to Faulkner's estate at Rowan Oak, Faulkner's grave and area sites depicted in his works.

For more information about this unique experience, contact the Department of English, Harding University, Box 2248, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or call (501) 279-4502.

Spring Sing video takes first

Dr. Lou Butterfield (communication) attended the South Region Production Competition of the national broadcasting society Alpha Epsilon Rho in January with several of his students. A Spring Sing video produced by him and the students took first place in the category of live performance. They have won in this category for the past two years.

Finley presents at math teachers conference

Dr. Tony Finley (education) made a presentation at the regional conference of the National Council of Teachers of Mathematics Nov. 4-6, 1993, in Paducah, Ky., titled "Connections in Science and Mathematics."

Peck speaks to Reading Council

Dr. Jeanine Peck (education) made a presentation titled "The Reading-Writing Connection" Feb. 3 in Searcy to the Three Rivers Reading Council.

Lectureship evening speakers scheduled

Evening speakers for the annual fall Lectureship and their topics, all from the book of Ephesians, have been announced by Lectureship Director Allan Isom. They are as follows:

Oct. 24 · Paul Faulkner, "Maintaining the Unity of the Spirit"

Oct. 25 · Neale Pryor, "He Is Our Peace"

Oct. 26 · Richard Rogers, "His Glorious Bride"

Oct. 27 · Jim Bill McInteer, "Beyond Our Imagination"

Old films gain new audience

OLD FILMS ARE FINDING A new audience on campus through the Harding University Film Studies Association.

Formed last spring under the general oversight of the English department, the organization's goal is to encourage the serious study of film as an art form and to encourage fellowship among members of the Harding community who are interested in sharing ideas about film. According to sponsor Dr. Ken Hammes, associate professor of English, the group has attracted a small but faithful following, with about 40 students attending each meeting.

The Film Studies Association meets twice a month to view films and discuss their actors and directors, special effects and techniques used, awards they received and other information of interest to members. Most films viewed have been of the "classic" variety, although the group has not limited its study to classics only. During the fall semester, such time-honored films as "Breakfast at Tiffany's," "Animal Crackers," "The Manchurian Candidate" and "The African Queen" were the focus of the group's analysis. An effort is made to avoid recent films containing offensive or explicit material.

Special guests are asked occasionally to speak at the group's meetings. A highlight of the spring semester, for example, was a visit by Bill and Teresa Purcell of Heber Springs, Ark., who shared some tricks of the trade used for their motion picture special effects company. Teresa, who is a Harding graduate and daughter of Biology Professor Bill Rushton, and her husband have created special effects for such films as "Home Alone," "RoboCop," "Passenger 57" and "Star Trek II."

Craig Hanson, a junior English major from Memphis,

Tenn., serves as vice president of the Film Studies Association during the 1993-94 school year and helps take the lead in film selection and discussions.

"The members of this group enjoy being exposed to older films they haven't seen before," Hanson said. "We try to choose films suggested by the members with a variety of styles and actors, and then we discuss our personal impressions of the films, scenes that stood out, interesting camera shots."

Other officers for this school year are Natalie Herndon, president, a sophomore psychology major from Brookhaven, Miss., and Joanne Mitchell, secretary-treasurer, a junior elementary education major from Monroe, La. Also serving as sponsors of the organization are Dr. John Williams, associate professor of English; Terry Smith, director of the social work program; and Dr. Travis Thompson, professor of math and computer science.

UPLIFT expands to two sessions

ORGANIZERS OF UPLIFT '94, THE 11TH ANNUAL week-long Bible camp for young people, are expecting record numbers of campers as the program expands to two sessions this year.

Last year's record number of nearly 2,000 campers prompted the decision to offer two one-week sessions of the summer camp rather than one. Session 1 is June 18-23, and Session 2 is June 25-30. UPLIFT Director Dr. Allan Isom said he believes that offering two sessions will allow campers to be better served individually by his staff.

"The goal of UPLIFT is the development of spirituality in young people," Isom said, "and I believe that the two sessions will help us achieve that goal more effectively."

UPLIFT campers enjoy a week full of spiritual and social activities designed to focus on teamwork, biblical principles and morals. They hear motivating speakers and music presentations, as well as featured entertainment.

For more information contact Isom at Harding University, Box 2280, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or call (501) 279-4289.

Wildlife prints offered for sale by the University

THE WOODWARD Collection of wildlife prints is being offered for sale by the University. The collection contains 258 prints valued at approximately $100,000.

The collection was given to the school in 1990 by Dr. Gerald Woodward of Hershey, Pa., a 1967 graduate of Harding. He now has a private medical practice in Hershey.

Included in the Woodward Collection are 58 prints by John Seerey-Lester, 53 by R.S. Parker and 147 by Robert Bateman. All three are nationally and internationally known wildlife artists. Some of the prints available are artist proofs.

Prints range in size from 10x16 inches to 29x40 inches unframed. The collection includes Bateman's "Rocky Wilderness-Cougar," "Midnight-Black Wolf" and "Snowy Owl on Driftwood," which are three of his more prominent creations.

Those interested in obtaining a complete listing of prints and their individual prices should write Buddy Rowan, assistant vice president for finance, Harding University, Box 772, Searcy, AR 72149-0001.

Students explore skills at National Leadership Forum

THE 38TH ANNUAL National Leadership Forum for high school students in grades 10-12 is June 12-17 on the main campus.

The program allows students to explore their personal leadership capabilities, learn family values and examine complex issues such as homelessness, AIDS, and drug and alcohol abuse.

Concert Choir issues two new releases

THE CONCERT CHOIR, under the direction of Dr. Arthur Shearin, has issued two new releases in cooperation with Shock-Wave Sound Productions of Fort Worth, Texas.

"Teach Me, Lord, to Wait" is an extra-length recording of contemporary Christian favorites featuring Harding alumnus David Slater. Slater, a former winner of the national Star Search competition, joins with the choir on most of the numbers and contributes four in which all four tracks are of his voice. The first Harding recording ever available on CD, it is also available on cassette. The album contains 37 songs total-

During the forum the young leaders will hear several noted speakers, including nationally acclaimed film critic Michael Medved, who shares his views about the changing values of American culture. Medved is co-host of "Sneak Previews," the weekly movie review program that airs on PBS in more than 150 cities. He also was a featured speaker at Harding in ing 68 minutes of music and provides outstanding value.

Also recently released is the Concert Choir "Wedding Favorites," available only on cassette. According to Shearin, "Concert Choir wanted to make available to churches and interested individuals a high-quality recording of all-religious, unaccompanied choral music." The "Wedding Favorites" recording includes 18 processionals, love songs, prayer songs and recessionals.

Both of these new recordings and previous recordings of University groups are available from the Harding Recording Service and the University Bookstore.

Minority groups join voices for Gospel Explosion

VOICES JOINED IN SWEET harmony Feb. 11-12 for a successful Gospel Explosion '94, Harding's annual weekend of music and fellowship featuring regional minority singing groups and information for prospective students.

The scope of Gospel Explosion has grown during the last few years, in part through the efforts of the Office of Admissions Services, which has helped promote it to a larger area than in the past. Organizers hope to encourage the enrollment of more minority students at Harding through the event.

Gospel Explosion features performances by several minority gospel singing groups throughout the weekend's activities. Groups participating this year included the popular Straight Company; Amen, the summer tour group of Southwestern Christian College; several groups from Little Rock, Ark., and Memphis, Tenn.; and one of Harding's vocal groups, Rejoice.

During the weekend prospective students visited classes and a chapel program, participated in a devotional on the steps of the Administration Auditorium, enjoyed games and other social activities, and heard lots of good music, including the Harding Concert Choir. Saturday evening featured all the participating singing groups together in a special Gospel Explosion concert.

1993's American Studies Institute Distinguished Lecture Series.

The cost for the forum is $75, which covers all costs directly related to the seminar, including housing, meals and materials. The seminar fee is paid by the civic club or organization sponsoring each student.

The seminar is co-sponsored by Farm Bureaus, civic clubs and the American Studies Institute. For more information write to National Leadership Forum, Harding University, Box 762, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or call (501) 279-4497.

Research grant awarded to senior

SENIOR CHEMISTRY major Mandy Prosser and Chemistry Professor Dr. Ed Wilson have been awarded an undergraduate research grant from the SILO Undergraduate Research Fellowship. The gift will be used to fund Prosser's project on the synthesis of ruthenium complexes, with Wilson acting as research mentor.

Prosser, who is from Dickson, Tenn., began the project during her junior year for a research techniques course under Wilson's direction. Her preliminary work was presented at Memphis State University and at the Arkansas Academy of Science, where she received a second-place award for her efforts. Prosser and Wilson are now completing the project, and Prosser will present its findings at two undergraduate research forums. She also will write a paper about the project that has the possibility of publication.

The $2,740 grant covers all costs of the project and is sponsored by the SILO Advisory Council, the Arkansas Community Foundation and the National Science Foundation.

The Dream Continues

By Gary D. Elliott, Ph.D.
Vice President for University Advancement

Harding University was once a dream, imagined by people of vision and faith. But what may have been only a dream in the 1920s exists today, seven decades later, as a healthy and vibrant reality.

Because of the blessings of God and the toil, sacrifice and generosity of thousands, Harding University today gives shape and substance to that dream. The University includes more than 3,500 undergraduates from 50 states and 40 foreign countries; more than 250 graduate students; faculty and staff members exceeding 600; and a family of alumni surpassing 30,000.

For those people who know and have known Harding University for the past 70 years, "The Dream Continues" appropriately identifies a campaign for the 1990s. The dream calls for a collegiate environment that encourages the integration of faith, learning and living; develops scholarship and promotes global citizenship; and recognizes service to be the true measure of success.

Harding's approach to education is in sharp contrast to current trends that advance philosophies that run counter to faith in God and in the reliability of the Bible as a guide for living. The vision defines an education that will properly prepare students for the 21st century.

However, a dream that educates for eternity never achieves total reality but must constantly enrich every facet of the educational experience. Thus, the $52 million, five-year campaign seeks to ensure the dream's continuing progress and development through appropriate and adequate funding.

As "The Dream Continues" Campaign first began to be discussed, hundreds voiced again their hopes, dreams and visions for Harding University. The board of trustees, administration, faculty, staff, students and the President's Council participated in months of discussion and planning.

The campaign's shape took form with an emphasis on those characteristics that make the University unique. The dimensions of the old dream remain valid and give form to what we envision for the future. The dream articulates six major areas of concern for the campaign:

CHANGING LIVES ... Harding University places first importance on the possibility of changed lives. Far too many people today believe that the time has passed for an educational institution to effect a positive influence in forming lives that exalt faith, morality and service. Harding University, however, affirms that the lives of its students can be formed in the image of the Creator. No other facet of the dream has a more compelling imperative.

MAKING THE DREAM AFFORDABLE ... Harding University commits itself to keeping its opportunities affordable to all who would seek to experience its unusual educational options. Securing funds to underwrite financial assistance provides one of the campaign's greatest challenges, and securing adequate funding emerges as one of its fondest hopes. Thus, a major part of the dream includes renewed attention to scholarship support.

COMMITMENT TO FACULTY AND STAFF ... Harding University commissions the campaign to secure funding to provide faculty and staff members not only with appropriate salaries, but with materials and equipment that amplify the University's efforts to enrich the educational experience of Harding students. At a time when costs soar for salaries, benefits, equipment, facilities and materials, the campaign focuses on providing increased funding for these areas.

TECHNOLOGY FOR THE FUTURE ... Harding University does not ignore the need to remain technologically current. Nothing in man's history has changed faster than available technology. With the incredible advancements in information acquisition and dissemination, Harding recognizes the need to stay abreast in order to enhance curricular offerings and experience. Therefore, a major component of the campaign gives attention to these areas.

ENVIRONMENT FOR LEARNING ... Harding University understands that an environment conducive to "educating for eternity" comes at no small price. Comfortable living arrangements and adequate academic and extracurricular facilities are ongoing challenges. Furthermore, the greater need is to provide an environment where the student can expect a place that honors morality, fairness, integrity, safety, quality and encouragement. None of these needs are met without a price, both in financial costs and personnel commitment.

"The successful realization of this dream calls for a renewed commitment to our basic reason for existence. It calls for continued sacrifice. It calls for faith."

President David B. Burks

SECURING THE FUTURE OF THE DREAM ...

Harding University recognizes that a University's security depends upon the strength of its endowment. Endowment not only secures the future but also enhances a university's ability to sustain its current health.

"The Dream Continues" comprises the largest campaign in the history of Harding University. Its size underscores the measure of the commitment of today's generation of "dreamers." But with the challenges that call for the University to meet them, only a bold vision will do.

Having met and exceeded the goals of the "Beyond Excellence" Campaign, the University confidently steps forward and reaches for the new dream that extends the vision begun decades ago. Harding University believes that it occupies a position of unequaled potential in its history.

Building on the richness of its heritage, on the strength of its enrollment, on the generosity of its donors and on the confidence in God's blessings, Harding University announces "The Dream Continues" Campaign.

With a goal of $52 million over the next five years, the campaign identifies these needs:

OPERATIONAL NEEDS

Annual Fund — provides scholarships, salaries, supplies and other unrestricted funds	$12,500,000
Restricted Fund — underwrites special programs like the Walton scholars	$11,000,000

CAPITAL NEEDS

1. Jim Bill McInter Bible and World Missions Center	$6,000,000
2. Art and music facilities expansion and renovation	$1,850,000
3. Maintenance and expansion of campus facilities	$2,700,000
4. Equipment, technology, fiber-optic network	$1,000,000
5. Tennis Courts	$200,000
6. Academy Gymnasium	$500,000
7. Road bus	$250,000
	$12,500,000

ENDOWMENT NEEDS

To secure the future through endowed programs, professorships and scholarships	$16,000,000
	$52,000,000

"The Dream Continues"
 Campaign began accruing gifts and pledges July 1, 1993, the beginning of fiscal year 1994. As of December 31, 1993, totals had reached $11,253,061. This amount includes pledges and gifts from numerous sources, specifically the following pledge commitments:

Alumni phonathon	$955,000
Board of trustees	$1,535,000
Faculty and staff	$873,000
President's Council	$1,203,000
Foundations and other major donors	$2,500,000

While "The Dream Continues" is the largest campaign in Harding's history, it is truly an appropriate dream for the next five years. Many "largest numbers" exist at Harding University today:

- (1) Enrollment, having grown steadily the past seven years
- (2) Faculty, not only the largest in numbers but in percentage of final professional degrees obtained
- (3) Majors and degree programs available
- (4) Athletic teams, for both men and women
- (5) Endowment, with the increasingly important need for it to grow larger

However, "The Dream Continues" includes one very significant smaller number:

 annual gifts needed to balance the budget. The projection of a $2.5 million need for the next five years provides a welcome change from the $5 million annual needs of the recent past.

To succeed in meeting the goals of the campaign, Harding University's Advancement Office will continue to engage the successful methods and programs of the past while beginning to move toward new ways of meeting the challenges of the next decade.

Because of the size of the campaign goal, the Advancement Office has begun adding staff and programs. However, the University knows that one of the necessary pieces to make this plan work is a large cadre of volunteers so that advancement work is not totally staff driven.

In the same way that everyone's help is needed, so every kind and size of gift will together comprise the $52 million total. Gifts typically range from the crumpled dollar bill to a check for $1 million, from a single volume for the library to equipment for a major laboratory, from a prayer to a solicitation. Each gift makes a difference.

Harding University accepts the challenges of "The Dream Continues" with optimism and confidence that, with the blessing of God and through the generosity and participation of thousands, the goal will be reached. III

Improving the power of

AT 3 YEARS OF AGE, "Katie" was dismissed from the day care facility she attended because of her disruptive behavior. Her par-refer clients when their staff is overloaded.

"All of this has been achieved by word of mouth because we've done very minimal advertising over the years," said Beckie Weaver, director of the clinic.

The clinic began as an off-shoot of the University's major in communication disorders so that its students ents, concerned and frustrated about her extremely limited speaking ability, brought her to Harding's Speech and Hearing Clinic in hopes of finding the help their daughter needed.

COMMUNICATION

Children in circumstances similar to Katie's comprise the 35 to 45 clients the clinic serves on a regular basis. Started in 1952, the clinic's reputation and services have become well-established. It now attracts children not only from Searcy but from Little Rock, Des Arc, Batesville, Heber Springs and other Arkansas cities. "Our services are pretty much known statewide," said Dr. Dan Tullos, director of the communication disorders program.

Clients are referred to the clinic by physicians, the Head Start program, the W.D. Mills Educational Cooperative's Early Childhood program and the Social Security Administration. The area public schools also could receive practicum hours and gain useful, hands-on experience. The clinic and the services it provides follow the guidelines of the American Speech-Language-Hearing Association (ASHA).

"WE'RE STRICTLY A pre-professional program," said Tullos, "and by meeting ASHA standards, our students therefore meet the admission requirements for graduate school programs."

Of the 375 hours of clinical experience required for graduation from graduate school, 125 of them can be met at Harding. And 25 of these hours are spent merely observing therapy before the students can actually begin the process themselves.

"Our assessments and therapy sessions are primarily performed by students, but they are supervised at all times by ASHA-certified clinicians and licensed speech-language pathologists," said Weaver.

Weaver, Tullos and Karen McLarty are the three speech-language pathologists who staff the clinic.

McLarty is a newcomer to the clinic this year. She graduated from Harding's communication disorders program in 1986 and received her master's degree one year later from the University of Tennessee at Knoxville. Before coming to join the faculty as an instructor of communication, she worked for National Health Corp. and as a speech-language pathologist for St. Francis Hospital in Memphis, Tenn. In addition to teaching, she serves as a supervisor in the clinic.

Tullos and Weaver graduated together from Harding's communication disorders program in 1973. They then both attended the University of Mississippi, where they received their master's degrees in 1974.

Tullos went on to work as a diagnostician in Pine Bluff, Ark., and also for Alberta Children's Hospital in Calgary, Alberta, Canada. He has been on the faculty at Harding since 1979, receiving his doctorate in 1988 from Pennsylvania State University.

Weaver taught at Harding for two years after receiving her master's, and then taught for eight years in the Texas Public School System. She returned to teach at Harding in 1984. Now, after their careers have taken them to Texas and Canada, Tullos and Weaver are both back at Harding.

The talented staff and the connection of the clinic to the University allow students trained in the most recent clinical procedures to provide services to the community at the lowest possible cost.

Services and treatment of this kind range in price from $60-$100 per hour in a medical office setting. The cost of services at Harding's Speech and Hearing Clinic is $7.50 per half hour, a price that has been established on a sliding scale, which means it is based on clients' ability to pay.

"The clinic is certainly not generating big dollars," said Tullos.

Generating revenue, however, is not the purpose of the clinic. "We're strictly here for our students to provide needed services to the community, which in turn provides valuable experience for our majors," said Weaver.

THE SERVICES PROVIDED by the clinic include therapy for disorders of articulation, language, voice and fluency. A wide variety of audiological screening services are also available. "Since we're not geared as much toward hearing services as we are toward speech, we refer most hearing problems to the appropriate service agency when necessary," said Tullos.

Services of the clinic are not limited entirely to children. It also treats adults, who are most commonly referred to the clinic when their health insurance or Medicare benefits have been reduced or eliminated.

Harding students also receive services through the Speech and Hearing Clinic. "As a matter of fact, right now we're seeing several students from the music department who are having trouble with vocal nodules," said Weaver.

Whether the clients are children, college students or adults, they continue to seek the clinic's services.

"I receive calls on a daily basis from individuals inquiring about our program," said Weaver, "but we must keep the clinic enrollment parallel to the number of students we have enrolled to work with them."

If not for that limitation, Weaver said the clinic would be enrolling new clients on almost a daily basis. Nearly 70 students now have declared majors in communication disorders.

As for Katie, she's been under the supervision of the clinic for 11 months, and she has become yet another success story for the clinic staff. She now has the capability of saying two-word phrases.

"We can really tell she's happy, and a decrease has been noted in her temperamental behavior," said Weaver. "Her parents are amazed and are just thankful that someone gave their daughter the help that she needed." ■

Lady Bisons win 20 games, take third in AIC

THE LADY BISON BASKETBALL team posted another 20-win season and placed third in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference.

The team rolled to an impressive 20-10 season. Five of those losses came to Arkansas Tech University (twice), the defending NAIA national champions; Arkansas State University, the defending NIT champions; and the University of Missouri-Rolla and Cal-State San Bernardino, both NCAA Division II top 20 teams.

Senior All-American Kymm Hudson Alexander led the team in scoring and rebounding. She was the third-leading scorer and rebounder in the AIC. Alexander holds all of Harding's season and career scoring records. Juniors Jama Fullerton and Cindy Camp and sophomore Mindy Murphy also made major contributions to the team's success.

The freshman duo of Bridget Benson and Angie Fouts had an impact on the season's outcome as well. Both were among the top 10 in scoring and rebounding in the AIC.

Alexander is the only senior on the squad, and Coach Greg Harnden has a promising list of high school seniors who have made verbal commitments to play for Harding next year.

Competitive men's team hindered by lack of depth

THE MEN'S BISON BASKETBALL team put together a 12-17 record to finish sixth in the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference. The team was 4-10 in the AIC.

Under the guidance of first-year Head Coach Jeff Morgan and Assistant Coach Tim Kirby, the Bisons were competitive, but lack of depth on the bench was often the deciding factor.

The Bisons defeated University of the Ozarks and Ouachita Baptist University, the AIC's second- and third-place teams, and took AIC champion Arkansas Tech University down to the final minute before losing.

Harding was led by senior Tony Marion, the conference's fourth-leading scorer (18.5 ppg) and leading rebounder (9.9 pg). Late in the season he and sophomore Thomas Norphlet were named AIC Players of the Week.

Norphlet, a quick point guard, gave the team a bona fide scoring threat from outside to go along with Marion's offensive punch on the inside.

Busy AIC spring season begins for Bison athletes

APRIL AND MAY WILL be busy months for Harding athletes as six of the Arkansas Intercollegiate Conference championships are decided. Bison athletes are expected to be contenders in all the championship races.

Coach David Elliott's tennis teams are the defending AIC champions. Beginning the season the talented women's team is ranked 15th among NAIA schools, and the men's team is ranked 13th.

The Lady Bisons are expected to repeat as AIC champions with five of the top six players returning and four talented freshmen vying for playing time. Alicia Rojas and Jessica Ruiz, all-conference performers, will lead the team toward a second consecutive championship.

A Bison repeat in men's play will be challenged by a strong Quachita Baptist University team. The Bisons have lost three players but will be led by All-AIC Ignacio Ruiz, Leoncio Dominquez and Ruben Gonzalez.

On the baseball diamond the Bisons face a formidable schedule, including a spring break trip to south Alabama and games against three NCAA Division I teams. Returning lettermen and starters Nick Fouts, Jason French, Joe Daniels, Todd Miller, Daryl Johnson and Eric Dodson will be joined by Kevin Burton, Jerry Lair and Scott Waite as key players in the Bisons' bid for an AIC championship.

Longtime head basketball coach Jess Bucy has come out of retirement to take over coaching responsibilities of the team. He will have transfers Chip Busbee, Randy Bell, Justin Florio, Wes McElroy and Wade Wilson to bolster the team's depth.

The Bison golf team will attempt to improve on its sixth-place finish last year. In match play during the fall semester, the team was undefeated. Senior Kevin Kelly and three sophomores, James Clark, Matt Tiller and Dave DeWitt, will be pressed by freshmen Brad Williams (medalist in fall team play) and Brad Wood. Transfer students Bruce Johnston and John Harris will also make their bid for one of the top five positions.

In track the Bisons are the defending AIC champions, and the Lady Bisons were runners-up in 1993. Returning All-Americans Penny Mayberry and Tquan Moore plus All-AIC performers Damon Work, Ketty Jensen and Keri Hutchison will form the nucleus of the teams.

Providing depth on the teams will be Kim Burch, Jess Wiley, Jason Thomas, Jon Ewing, Jeremy Winters, Kyle City, Andy Holt, Bryan Rampey, Jermaine Cuffie and Keith Nelson.

Coach Bryan Phillips' teams expect Southern Arkansas University to be the primary contender in both the men's and women's divisions.

Simmons and Newby named first-team NAIA All-Americans

FIVE HARDING FOOTBALL players capped a successful season by being named to the NAIA All-American team.

Junior defensive end Paul Simmons and senior free safety Jon Newby were both named to the first team. Simmons was one of only two to repeat from last year while Newby was a second-team selection in 1992.

Thad Hill, a junior tight end, and Brooks Harrell, a senior inside linebacker, were named to the honor squad as second teamers. Senior Bryan Wansley made the honorable mention team.

Wansley, a two-time All-Conference honoree, was a four-year starter at center for the Bisons.

Simmons becomes only the second Harding footballer to be a two-time first-team selection. Pat Gill was on the first team in both '89 and '91.

Newby is the most-honored Harding athlete ever, with three-time recognition in football (second team in '92 and honorable mention in '91) plus All-American awards in track as a hurdler in both '91 and '92. As a sophomore, Newby was among the national leaders in interceptions.

Hill, at 6-4 and 240 pounds, is the prototype tight end. Not only a fine blocker, his good hands enabled him to lead the team with 35 catches good for more than 400 yards and two touchdowns.

Moving from outside to inside linebacker did not slow Harrell down as he led the team with 143 tackles and, in addition, had two interceptions and a fumble recovery.

More records set in 1993 as Gifts near $9 million

BY PHILLIP TUCKER

Christian education at Harding University received another record-breaking wave of support as nearly $9 million in gifts was given in 1993.

The $8,980,179 given to Harding in 1993 was the most ever received by the University in one year, and is an increase of nearly 19 percent over 1992's record total of $7,565,924. The total includes approximately $3.9 million in current and capital gifts, and $5 million in deferred and restricted gifts.

The total figure also represents gifts from the largest number and percentage of alumni donors ever — $1.2 million from 5,809 donors, or 39.3 percent of the University's alumni. 1993 was the sixth consecutive year that alumni giving topped $1 million and the fourth consecutive year that alumni contributions topped 35 percent.

In 1993 the total number of donors, which included alumni, businesses, foundations and churches, was 6,711 — also a record. The previous record of 6,040 donors was set in 1990. More than 1,000 donors made their first-ever financial gift to Harding in 1993.

The board of trustees made their dedication clear with gifts of $1.7 million, and the University's Development Council responded with gifts totaling $604,269.

Estate gifts of more than $2.4 million proved to be one of the largest areas of giving in 1993. Gifts from foundations totaled $662,942, and gifts from businesses were $476,021. Corporate matching gifts increased 8 percent over 1992 to $217,627. III

L.C. Sears Society established

The memory of a beloved figure in Harding's history and the need for scholarship funding for Harding's students have combined to create a new avenue for University giving: the L.C. Sears Society.

L.C. Sears served as academic dean and chairman of the English department at Harding for 35 years. He was a gifted teacher and dean who loved the concept of Christian liberal arts education. No one wanted more sincerely for young people to have the opportunity to study at Harding than Sears.

Although Harding is committed to keeping its costs low, and despite the recent naming of the University in a national publication to be among education's "best buys," the expense can be too great for many families. And with outside funding for scholarships becoming more difficult to obtain, the burden of providing financial aid for Harding's students rests heavily on the University itself. Harding now funds more than $5 million annually in scholarships for deserving students.

For these reasons the L.C. Sears Society has been established — at just the right time to help meet this crucial need for scholarship funding. The University has set an initial goal of 300 members of the Society, people who believe in the quality of education and the quality of Harding graduates. Members of the Society are invited to participate in special programs during the year, including an annual formal dinner and University-sponsored travel experiences. Members will also receive a personalized plaque in recognition of their membership, as well as their names on the L.C. Sears Society donor board in the American Heritage Building.

Three levels of membership are available to those interested in the Society: Annual Society Membership, with an annual gift of $1,000; Life Society Membership, with a single gift of $15,000; and Endowed Society Membership, with a single gift of $50,000. If you would like more information about investing in the future of Harding University by joining the L.C. Sears Society, please contact the University Advancement Office at Box 2238, Searcy, AR 72149-0001; or call 1-800-477-4312. III

FOCUS ON THE FUTURE

Charity may truly begin with your home

By Phil Dixon

MANY PEOPLE ARE SURPRISED TO LEARN THAT the value of their home has increased tremendously and, thus, may have become one of their most valuable assets. Consequently, some find that the sale of that home can present tax problems and hassles.

If you find yourself in this dilemma, you may want to consider making a charitable gift of your home to Harding. By making such a gift, you can help yourself and your family financially and, at the same time, help Harding continue to provide a Christian education for her students.

The following people found that a gift of their home to Harding helped them meet their individual objectives while helping the University at the same time.

In 1987 Cumi Bawcom King ('40) attended Homecoming and truly believes God's providence was at work. While visiting she attended a meeting where she learned she could give her home to Harding in return for a Charitable Gift Annuity. She found this would provide lifetime income while avoiding the worry of selling her home in New Mexico. As a retired schoolteacher, preacher's wife and alumna, she believes her move to Searcy and closeness to Harding is a big bonus.

Dr. Jack ('47) and Madalon Herren ('49) McCorkle wanted to provide their grandchildren a Christian education. They then learned that they could give their second home, located on a lake, to Harding in a Charitable Remainder Unitrust that would provide the funding for the grandchildren's education and, at the same time, give them a current income tax deduction. As alumni they were very pleased to be able to help both their grandchildren and their alma mater.

Last year Claude and Becky Reese, friends of Harding, found another way that they could ultimately benefit the University. They decided to make a gift of their 140-year-old antebellum home in Florida to Harding while retaining a life estate for themselves. This plan allows them to live in their home for the rest of their lives and, at the same time, realize the satisfaction of knowing their home will benefit the school after their deaths.

These three examples demonstrate how Harding supporters have used one type of asset to ensure the future of the University. Many other types of assets can be used as gifts. For more information about gifts of property, complete and return the attached card. III

Deaths

C. Edward White, 73, retired member of the English department faculty, died July 8, 1993.

A native of Athens, Ohio, he was educated at Ohio University and Marshall University. He had been a full-time preacher for congregations in Ohio and West Virginia before joining the faculties at York College, Ohio Valley College and then Harding. He taught at Harding 17 years, continued preaching at gospel meetings, and served as an elder of the Cloverdale Church of Christ in Searcy. Well known for his active charitable work, White served the local Optimist Club as distinguished president and lieutenant governor, twice being named Optimist of the Year. He also served the American Red Cross as chapter chairman and board member, reportedly having given more blood than anyone else known in the area. White's faculty rank was associate professor of English upon his retirement in 1986. He is survived by his wife, Evelyn, and his four sons, Wayne, Charles, Donald and James.
